CORNISH HOLIDAYS, CANADIAN STYLE

Cornish Holiday Redevelopment to use Canadian Luxury Log Homes

An agreement to build the first Canadian Log Home Resort in the UK has been signed today (Friday 8 December 2006) in the presence of the High Commissioner of Canada, James Wright, at Canada House. The resort will consist of 91 authentic luxury Canadian log homes, providing year round high quality holiday accommodation and the largest single development of imported Canadian log homes outside North America.

Cornish based Sunnyside Developments Ltd (1), along with the leading log home manufacturer in North America, 1867 Confederation Log Homes (2), will be working in partnership on the resort which is due to welcome its first guests in Spring 2008.

Sunnyside Developments Ltd is undertaking a multi-million pound redevelopment of the Sunnyside Holiday Village to shift its emphasis away from low budget 18-30s accommodation towards high quality family holidays. David Gamble, of Sunnyside, said "Log homes will provide families with a natural, beautiful setting in which to explore the charms of Cornwall."

Jason Kee, Trade Commissioner for the High Commission of Canada welcomes the new link between Canada and Cornwall, saying "I would like to congratulate Sunnyside Developments and 1867 Confederation Log Homes as they embark on the largest development of Canadian log homes outside North America. I'm certain those who choose to live in these wonderful homes will appreciate the warmth and beauty only a log home can bring them."

NOTES TO EDITORS:

(1) At the end of September 2006 Sunnyside Holiday Village near Newquay in Cornwall closed its gates as an 18-30s campsite. Sunnyside was well known as a low budget holiday destination for 18-30 year olds hoping to take advantage of Newquay's famous surf.

Sunnyside is undergoing an exciting multi-million pound redevelopment to better cater for the resort's growing family market. On Wednesday 6 December work started on site to create 91 authentic Canadian log homes, providing year round high quality holiday accommodation and the largest single development of imported Canadian log homes outside the United States.

The occasion was marked by a ground breaking ceremony, attended by representatives of the Canadian High Commission in London and the Canadian Log Home manufacturer, 1867 Confederation Log Homes.

LOG HOMES

Canadian Company brings logging expertise from Canada

Sunnyside Developments Ltd and Canadian company 1867 Confederation Log Homes¹ began work this week on the largest single development of imported Canadian log homes outside North America. The resort will consist of 91 authentic luxury Canadian log homes, providing year round high quality holiday accommodation.

David Gamble of Sunnyside Developments Ltd² said, "Sunnyside Village will provide something new to the English holiday market, combining the natural beauty of the Cornish coast with the luxury and rustic charm of traditional Canadian log homes."

Performance Meets Tradition

Log homes are a legacy Canadians have enjoyed for centuries, using techniques passed on by the pioneers of history. 1867 Confederation Log Homes have redefined traditional log joining methods to produce modern, energy efficient homes.

Mike Murphy of 1867 Confederation Log Homes explains the secret to its position as the leading log home manufacturer in North America is the quality of its logs.

"Our homes are made to last. With our in house design and drafting services we can provide custom log homes to meet our International clients exacting requirements.³, and each log is over one hundred years old. Each tree is carefully selected, and only cut in the winter because we know that sap travels down to the roots in winter, making our logs virtually free of sap and very long lasting."

The new resort will take advantage of 1867 Confederation Log Homes' versatile designs to provide a natural setting for family holidays. Sunnyside hopes to open its doors to guests in Spring 2008.
